Did you know?

In most municipalities in Canada, the average person uses about 234 gallons of water per day (7000 gallons per month) including water usage for outdoor irrigation.

On June 28, 2015, the water consumption in the Village of Chase was 4831.8 cubic litres of water – that's 1,062,996 gallons or 409 gallons per person. If each day's consumption were even 300 gallons per person, our monthly usage would be 9000 gallons per day. Okay, so the temperature on June 28, 2015 was 39 degrees celcius for the bulk of the day – but get this, of those 1,062,996 gallons, only 132,000 gallons went into our sewer system – that's 12% of the water being distributed to everyone in Chase that was actually used by the people - the rest, 78% of the water distributed, went onto the ground. So really, we used over 1 million gallons of water, but only 132,000 for ourselves (51 gallons per person).

Please consider how fortunate we are to have such great water, and consider conserving water so we will have it for a long time to come!

Watering Tips:

- Frequent watering promotes shallow root growth that in turn requires more frequent watering
- Your lawn can become "addicted" to water. The more frequently you water it the more it requires
- Your lawn requires only 15mm (½ inch) every 2-3 days. You can measure any moisture with a Frisbee, pie plates or empty cans and only top up if required. This can greatly reduce the amount of water used
- Watering during the heat of the day is wasteful as the significant majority of the water evaporates before soaking in
